CONSTELLIS WELCOMES ROY SHAPOSHNIK AS ITS CHIEF STRATEGY ADVISOR

RESTON, Va. (April 26, 2017)—Constellis, a leading provider of operational support and risk management services, announced today that it has partnered with Roy Shaposhnik as its new Chief Strategy Advisor. Roy will be responsible for developing Constellis' strategic growth initiatives via global partnerships with foreign governments and commercial businesses around the world.

Roy brings more than 15 years of experience in logistics, security, aviation and international politics and development to Constellis—specializing in strategic consulting and assisting government and corporate entities to pursue new business on a global scale.

“Roy’s wealth of experience in international business and consultancy make him a valuable addition to the Constellis team,” said Jason DeYonker, CEO of Constellis. “An exceptional collaborator with a unique skill set, he will play a critical role as we look to build new strategic partnerships and capitalize on the growth we experienced in 2016.”

Roy is the latest addition to Constellis' executive leadership team, which welcomed Barry Broadus as the company's new chief financial officer in November. That appointment followed an announcement in September that the company had closed on a management-led buyout by a consortium of investors headed by Apollo-affiliated funds. Apollo Global Management is a leading global alternative investment manager.
